

May 12th 2018 | Frequently Asked Questions > Can your system automatically detect when a visitor is logged into a review site?

Our system automatically detects when a user is already logged into Facebook or Google, and highlights those review site links accordingly if they are available. This feature is live on all profiles and currently only available for Facebook and Google links.

Please note: This feature may not activate if the visitor is using tracking blockers.

Note how the Google link is highlighted in green because the visitor is logged in
